What is Phishing

It is a specific kind of fraud on the internet carried out by deceiving users. The main medium used to implement such attacks is the e-mail: the message of an e-mail, that apparently has been sent by a bank, a financial institution or any website which requires a log-in phase (web-mail, e-commerce,...), shows fake registration issues (most of the times) and asks to provide your personal information in order to access the website. Whenever a user inserts this information, the Cyber Criminal owns it.
